JULLUNDUR, India, Sept 21, (Reuter): Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, making his first visit in three years to violence-torn Punjab, promised today to hold political talks on the future of the north Indian state. "I will call all political parties for discussions on the Punjah problem to counter terrorism and speed up development," he told members of his Congress (1)

The traditional power structure had broken down in the fiveyear Sikh separatist campaign, but Rajiv pledged the Congress Party would "return power to the people" at village level.

The Indian government had helped smooth the way for Rajiv's visit by ordering 138 Sikh militants freed from detention.

One official said the order was a show of goodwill by the government to free some of the militants held since early 1985.

They have been held since the 1984 security operation following the Indian Army's assault on the Sikhs' holiest shrine, the Golden Temple in Amritsar. Their release fulfills a long-standing Sikh demand.

The assault to crush extremists taking refuge in the temple led four months later to the assassination of Rajiv's mother, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

In May this year, a 10-day siege of the temple resulted the deaths of at least 30 people and ended with the surrender of more than 150 militants. By releasing 138 of the 326 militants being held in the Jodhpur central jail in Rajasthan state, Rajiv appeared to be offering an olive branch to Sikhs, said a Punjabi political analyst.

Benazir gives birth to a son

Opposition leader Benazir Bhutto gave birth to a son today, her first child since her marriage to a wealthy local businessman last year, her family announced.

It said the baby was delivered by Caesarean section four to five weeks prematurely at 9:30 am (0430 GMT) at a public bospital in Karachi.

Hospital sources said Benazir, 35, was admitted last night and that both the mother and child were in good health. Grandson

"God has blessed our family with the first grandson of sha-heed Zulfikar Ali Bbutto to be born in our country," Benazir's mother, Begum Nusrat Bhntto. said in a statement. She told reporters at the hospital the baby weighed seven pounds (3.2 kg), but offered no explanation as to wby the child was premature. National Assembly elections are scheduled for Nov 16 in which Benazir's opposition Pakistan People's Party has a strong chance of victory.

Moscow declares emergency in Nagorno-Karabakh

MOSCOW, Sept 21, (Reuter): Soviet authorities declared a state of emergency in the Transcaucasian enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh today, following renewed violence between Armenians and Azerbaijanis in the disputed territory.

The official news agency Tass said Kremlio envoy Andrei Volsky announced the new measures in a television and radio address.

Volsky was charged in July with the task of restoring order to the southern Soviet Republics of Armenia and Azerbaijan after if a months of ethnic unrest.

Measures

"With regard to the complex situation, a state of emergency has been declared in Stepanakert and Agdam region aod a curfew imposed," Tass said. "All oecessary measures are being taken to ensure calm and guarantee the safety of the population."

Stepanakert is the regional capital of Nagorno-Karabakh. which is part of the Republic of Azerbaijan hut is predominantly populated by Armenians. Agdam, also in Azerbaijan, lies just outside Nagorno-Sarabakh. Clashes were reported there soon after the start of the unrest in February.

Tass said the new measures followed further violence between Armeoians and Azerbaijanis. Houses and cars were set on fire last night and gunfire was heard. It said there had been no casualties.

As the Soviet news media maintained a virtual black-out oo developments in the region, officials in Moscow announced that Armenia had again been sealed off to the foreign press. The Soviet Transcaucasian Republic was reopened earlier this mooth after a six-mooth closure to foreign reporters.

Azerbaijan, where 32 people died io anti-Armenian clashes in Fehruary, was also reopeoed briefly before being sealed agaio.

In Yerevan, the Armeoiao capital, a spokeswoman for the party newspaper Kommunist said half of the city's enterprises had been closed by workers who walked out after the latest round of hloodshed in the Nagorno-Karabakh dispute.

LONDON, Sept 21, (Reuter): Amnesty International said today thousands in Somalia are being persecuted and the government has ignored persistent calls to halt torture and execution of its opponents.

A report by the London-based human rights organisation said thousands of Somalis are being systematically tortured, jailed without trial and executed hy security forces for suspected opposition to the country's military government.

It said many of those arrested - some as young as 12 years old - were jailed for criticising the government.

Amnesty said it had been receiving reports of torture in Somalia since the present government came to power in a 1969 coup hut the reports had increased since 1980.

The human rights violations documented in this report have often been brought to the attention of the Somali government. Amoesty International has repeatedly called on it to end these grave violations ... but the appeals have largely gone unanswered," the report said.

Amnesty said the Mogadishu government had accused it of interfering io its internal affairs.

The Kurds, who claimed Iraq dropped chemical bombs on their settlements, fled to Turkey last mooth. Turkey accepted 60,000 of them. Iraq, acting at the urging of Turkey, has proclaimed ao amnesty for the Kurds. But, only two Kurds have returned so far. Shortly after the Kurdish refugees began arriving io Turkey, Iran promised Turkey it would accept all the refugees who wanted to go to that country. Batu said the transfer of 2,000

Kurds, who opted to go to Iran, was made possible by the Turkish authorities last week. He added that about 6,000 Kurds had gone to Iran via Turkey at the beginning of the ordeal.

Batu told reporters at a weekly news briefing that a question-naire had been distributed to Kurdish refugees io Turkey to find out their plans.

An official French spokesman in Paris on Tuesday described the Kuwaiti-French summit talks as important due to the deep friendly relations between the two countries and because the Amir is chairman of the current session of the Organisation of Islamic Conference.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said today that HH and the accompanying delegation will be received at Orly airport by Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Roland Dumas. He added that HH will leave assembly on Wednesday. The speech will relay the views of at least one-fifth of the world population on global issues.

46-member Organisation of Islamic Conference, will deliver a historic address before the UN

Arahand world leaders lauded the Amir's statesmanship at the international level, and his insistence on a role for the Islamic world and its organisation in defusing global tensions and conflicts.

The Amir has also called for restoring world peace to clear the way for focusing on world economic problems, particularly the wide gap between developed and underdeveloped countries. The optimal investment of resources, upgrading of development plans to end famine and confront recurring natural disasters are also prime concerns.

After he was elected chairman of the Fifth Islamic Summit in Kuwait in January 1987, HH the Amir defined the OIC role at the international level.

The most prominent aspect of this role is to persist in supporting the buman unity principle and bringing up new generations characterised by neither superiority nor submission."

HH also called on the superpowers to agree on a formula that guarantees their security, but not at the expense of other states. This would divert beavy armament costs to more fruitful human plans, be pointed out.

Kuwait, represented by HH tbe Amir, adopted a unique procedure for ensuring the Islamic world's participation in solving world issues. The Amir urged the bureau of the 5th Islamic Summit Conference and heads of standing committees to meet in Kuwait to "bolster ties, intensify consultations on comprehensive Islamic issues, reac-uvate and co-ordinate the tasks of bodies entrusted with the follow-up of summit resolutions.

Amir and chairman of the OIC before the UN Council. In the message HH hailed the people of Namihia and the SWAPO organisation leading its struggle, He also called for granting Namibians the right to their territories and assisting them to achieve independence.

Support On the UN Day on Oct 24, 1987, HH the Amir voiced full support to the international organisation. He urged the UN to adhere to its noble principles embodied in its charter.

Crown Prince presides over HPC meeting

HH the Crown Prince and Premier and chairman of the Higher Planning Council (HPC) Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah yesterday presided over the first meeting of the second session of the council. HPC Secretary-General Fund Molah Hussein told KUNA that Sheikh Saad encouraged HPC members to solve some of the country's economic, social, bousing and population problems.

Furthermore, HH underlined the government's co-operation with the council in the interest of Kuwait. Hussein added that HH pointed out to Kuwait's role in the Arab and international arenas and the special developments between Iraq and Iran. He said he hopes the current peace talks are successful.

After the speech, the council discussed a report by the secretary-general on following up implementation of previous HPC decisions. Hussein discussed the HPC annual report of the first session. Hussein indicated that the council decided to keep all members on permanent HPC committees except for the social services committee, which has two new members, Jasem Al Nasef and Entitled "Under Pure Skies". t will display a collection of Middle Eastern photographs taken by amateurs and bobbyists during the 19th century.

The photographs bave been loaned to the Kuwait National Museum by the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House in Rochester, New York. The American museum is said to be the major research facility for the study of photography. Its Middle East collection has been primary source of study for photographers, historians, theologians and other students of the region.

The exhibition will be open to public from Sunday, Sept 25, during museum opening hours.

Thought for today

NO mind is thoroughly well organized that is deficient In a sense of humour — Samuel Taylor Coleridge, English poet (1772-1834).

The Amir has created history

TODAY begins the trip of HH the Amir to the international arena where people of the world are struggling for their rights and the right to live in peace.

This trip of the Amir of Kuwait, Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed, adds a new feature to the Kuwaiti diplomacy, planned by Sheikh Jaber himself soon after assuming

The world has known Kuwaiti diplomacy as a principled diplomacy despite the dangers and risks faced by this diplomacy and its designer.

Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed goes to the United Nations carrying with him Islamie thinking and philosophy, and with him go the hearts of one billion Muslims believing in his faith and convictions. Sheikh Jaber is carrying with him the philosophy of the entire Islamic nation — Arabs and non-Arabs.

Thus, he is heading to the UN not only as the Amir of the State of Kuwait, but is making the file of the Islamic nation his file and the talk of the Islamic nation his talk. When Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed carries the file of this nation, its image will certainly be different from the distorted version presented by others who are disturbed by any Islamic revival and would do whatever they can to distort the reputation and image of Islamic thought and the nation.

We, on the Arab and Gulf level will closely follow the trip of this man of principles to the United Nations, and will certainly remember that he is a Muslim, an Arab from the Gulf and the son of Kuwait.

Kuwait will undoubtedly be very proud of this visit and any of its achievements, as we may have to wait for a very long time before this opportunity of heading the OIC is repeated.

The Arab world has known Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed as a man of deeds and logic, and a man of true Arab manners

The Islamic world has known Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed as a man practising true Islamic principles, who never held back on what he believed to be true and right.

We in Kuwait will be very proud of this trip, especially because Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed is the man undertaking. it. Our generation is well aware of the fact that men sometimes create history for their nations. Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed created this for his country, and the Islamic nation may now benefit from one of its sons.

Dukakis has no campaign debts

By Hillary Chura

WASHINGTON, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis has something Walter Mondale lacked when the Minnesota sen-Neither Dukakis nor the Democratic National Committee (DNC) will enter the November election with substantial campaign debts, as was the case

This election cycle, the DNC has successfully raised $16.8 railtion the first time since 1974. when Congress imposed a ceiling on how much a presidential candidate can spend per election. that the Democrais have been able to raise that amount.

One of the chief reasons for the Dukakis campaign's successful fund raising is a perception among hig donors that Dukakis can win in November.

Los Angeles-based home-building company, for example, did not contribute much to the Democratic Party when Mon-dale ran for president in 1984. "I didn't give to Senator Mon-dale's campaign because I did not have strong feelings that he could make a difference," Broad

Recently, however, Broad forked over $100,000 to a DNC nonfederal" account. "I would not have donated to a losing campaign," he says. Broad is not alone. In June and July, 17 other groups and individuals donated $100,000 to various DNC accounts.

Donations Donations to such "nonfederal" accounts -- which are administered by state and local party affiliates - do not violate federal law, according to Karen Finucan, a spokeswoman for the Federal Election Commission. There is a federal limit of $1,000 on donations by individuals to presidential camraigns and a $20,000 limit on onations to the party national

People who want to give more n those limits may donate to nonfederal accounts, which not subject to the limitations he Federal Election Camings vary from state to state. A party committee, Ms Fin-

This influx of funds has freed Dukakis from the chore of postprimary fund-raising.

According to Mike Berman, former "Mondale for President" treasurer, the Dukakis campaign hit its fund-raising ceiling in May. Going into the 1984 Democratic National Convention, the Mondale campaign and the DNC had a cumulative debt of approximately $9 million. The Mondale campaign continued to raise money into December to pay off its debt.

Peter Kelly, DNC treasurer in 1980 and its national finance chairman in 1984, says "One reason the Dukakis campaign is doing better (financially) is because of how well Bob Farmer organized fund-raising during the primaries." Farmer, the Democratic Victory Fund co-ordinator, organized the National Finance Committee, whose members each pledged to raise $10,000 for the Dukakis primary campaign, and the similar Victory Fund, each of whose members has pledged to raise $100,000 on behalf of the Media image and reality

SIR: "A Truly Civilized Way To Fly" runs the bold legend in Gulf Air's summer advertising campaign, a carefully coneeived and meticulously presented effort, containing other laudable qualities such as balance, control, brevity and

Unfortunately the influence exercised by the company over their media image seems to wane to virtual non-existence when the glare of publicity fades. It is then, in the dark howels of the airline that credibility turns to inability, aptitude to ineptitude, efficiency to inefficiency, credible to incredible.

I had sent a brand new, red Samsonite Oyster suitcase, weighing 23 kilos on the day of my departure from Heathrow and, on the assurance that it would arrive two or three days later. I went to the cargo terminal in Kuwait Airport. I was disappointed to learn upon my arrival at 8 am that the computer could not locate my luggage but after a plethora of phone calls hy staff members I was directed to customs after paying a KDI.750 handling charge. From there I made my way to the location office where the first in a long line of papers was stamped. A little later my suitcase appeared hut to my horror it had been scrawled upon in three places in thick hlack felt-tipped pen. My suit case was searched and returned to the warehouse while I was sent back to complete formalities in the customs clearing office. The officer took my papers and disappeared to have my "manifest" drawn up. He returned about 20 minutes later and informed me that it would be a half hour before this procedure would be finalised. One and a half hours later the gentleman returned with a folder of documents which I thought would herald the appearance of my elusive luggage — it didn't. He spent another 15 minutes performing some crucial esoteric task elsewhere and. smilingly, he told me that I could claim the suit case, but first I must pay a handling charge of KD7. I laughed incredulously and offered him KD5 which, oddly, he gladly accepted. So, with a few bits of paper, I returned escorted to an office within the warehouse where more stamps were required and then I had to surrender my civil ID card for no apparent reason.

After going somewhere else and doing something else with somebody else the customs officer handed me my suit case. To my chagrin I was told that I was not allowed to carry the luggage out the way I had entered and in order to bring my car into the compound I had once again to hand over my ID. We hit upon a compromise: I would drive my car to the main gate and one of the porters would carry the case out to me. I had forgotten the ubiquitous tip — I gave him half a dinar, he looked disgruntled and elaimed he usually got at least a dinar but by this stage in the game charity was the last thing on my

I am not by any means new to either Kuwait or the efforts to procure unaccompanied baggage. The first time I did this was seven years ago when the procedure was infinitely simpler, more speedy, cheaper and wholly more efficient. Indeed, the only redeeming feature of the affair was the pleasant and attentive staff who seemed to deal with the adversity of a manifestly absurd system with aplomh and regard for the individual, or does my dissatisfaction tell me that being English, female and able to speak and understand Arabie had some bearing on their attitude towards me. I sincerely hope

I concede that the blame for this pitiful situation does not lie totally on the shoulders of the individual airline. Recently I wanted to eheck the arrival time of a flight but after failing to get a reply was forced to go to the airport without any information on the arrival of the plane. Recently, I had to receive my brother at Terminal Number two hours for immigration and customs elearance. The reason for this delay was that there was only one immigration officer to register the entries. I was much surprised to know that Kuwait cannot afford to employ more immigration officers while it

VATICAN CITY, (AP): Pope John Paul II's 10-day swing through Africa has paradoxically served to reduce the stigma of any future visit to South Africa and firmly established the

In the evenings, Pran likes to relax in the drawing room of his Khar bungalow and watch TV in bits with a remote control, and of course a glass in hand.

At such times, he talks nostalgically a bout the years gone by the hectic present, and the uncertain future. We were fortunate to catch him in one such mood and a glimpse of how a real sincere actor used to work, when films were made as they should be made.

Pran was born in Delhi and spent his early years in Lahore (now in Pakistan) hut his links with India were strong and sentimental. Talking of his finest memories, he said: "I migrated ing photography, producer Wali Mohd. Wali, forced him to join the cast as a villain in the Punjahi Yamia Jatt which proved a hig hit. He then had a walk-on role in Dalsukh Pancholi's Hindi film Khazanchi and was soon made the young hero opposite Noorjehan in Khandaan directed by Shaukat Hussain Rizvi. This film was very popular in Bombay and all over India. Thus Pran's face was already known to audiences when he arrived in Bombay. After a little struggle he got a role in Bombay Talkies' Ziddi whereafter S.M. Yusuf cast him as a young helpful hero in the family drama Grihasthi which ran for 50 weeks. Villain

But Pran was cut out to be more of a villain than a hero. Ve reminded him that even hile giving a romantic look to his heroine Sharda he would unconsciously hring an evil nade him recall other memories: "Yes, I agree with you." It was growing into a habit, I would narrow one eye

Talking of R.K. again, his face was clouded with memories: "I did many films for his studio, the best being Bobby and Jis Desh Mein. He was a very dear friend. We would sit in his cottage drinking till late hours. After that, he would never allow me to drive home. His car would drop me and my car was sent over the next morning. Of course, as I grew older I have controlled my drinking. One day I suddenly suffered a hang-over and felt weakness. Since then, I ordered a peg-measure to be kept in my bar for my daily quota."

A rare photo: Pran and Noorjehan in Khandaan made in pre-partitioned India in Labore, 1942. Trekking boldly where no star has gone before Indian TV has finally entered the scientific age. Sigma, India's own answer to Star Trek, is set in a space base on an asteroid. There are humans and funny looking spacemen and enthralling confrontations between good and evil.

ALL viewers who have been lulled into somnam hulance hy the mediocre stuff that's being churned out day after day are in for a pleasant surprise.

Fasten your seat belts and sit up because television is going to take off. And carry you with it -into onter space. Yes, TV has finally entered the science age. And how!

Sigma, India's own answer to Star Trek, is set in a space base on an asteroid, which is not only a research station but a space defence frontier too.

Of course, there are humans and funny looking spacemen and enthralling confrontation between good and evil, all of which are bound to keep children as well as adults rivetted. But what you'll miss on screen is the behind the scene activity, an adventure in itself. Serial

"Making the serial was a voyage into the unknown, says Ashok Talwar, who, along with Bizeth Banerjee, has masterminded the daring project. Only it turned out to be more daring than expected. "We had the inconceivable task of translating sophisticated scientific concepts into everyday language. And we had to avoid falling into the trap of using high flown Hindi."To tackle this problem, the director-writers have included an introduction-cumexplanation to every episode. And resorted to a mixture of extra effort on the director's part, and seven episodes of the serial are now ready. Mandi House was to have scheduled the serial for July, hut is proba-hly still shell-shocked hy its possibilities, and hy the producer's daring. But approval is inevitable, if quality has its say. Behind the screen

Archana Puran Singh is becoming like a no man's land. Though married, she joined and then parted company from boy friend Pankaj Parasher. She tried to get into Paigal. She tried to get into Rajesh Khanna's favour, hut unfortunately lacked the shrewdness of Anju, Dimple, Tina. She recently developed vibes with Dharm Jr., as she is playing a "hot" role with Sunny boy in a film called Aag Ka Gola.

Every hero and comedian has to don a woman's dress, at least once in a career and prance ahout in a sexy way. Even Amitable did it for Lawaris which made V. Shantaram angry enough to spit. Now, who would have thought that the macho hulk of a man called Chunky would also become a woman? Well, he is doing it to tease Madhuri Dixit in a film called Khilaaf.

Suhhash Ghai's Uttar Dakshin has failed very badly, proving that North and South don't meet at least in the films. But that has not deterred another producer from starting Purab Paschim, Uttar Dakshin, that too with fading stars like Raj Bahbar and Madhvi from the South. Will somehody remind him that "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet."

Mahesh Bhatt made a mess of the Kasoor shooting in London because he thought he did not need any script and had everything jotted down in his mind. Well, his memory failed and the poor producer was left holding the baby. All the more astounding because the film is a re-make of Dev Anand's Hare Rama Hare Krishna with former Bunty Behl trying to be a male Zeenat.

Farha smokes, drinks, ahuses, gambles and threatens. People wonder what will she do next if there is anything left at all which only a man can do.

FAMILY DOCTOR By DR ALLAN BRUCKHEIM

CALCIUM USEFUL IN FIGHTING OSTEOPOROSIS

QUESTION: Is calcium really any use in fighting osteoporosis?

Answer: To answer your question perhaps too simply — yes studies have long indicated the usefulness of calcium supplements in the treatment of osteoporosis. But their ability to stop bone loss or help increase hone mass depends a great deal on lifestyle. This means following an adequate and nutritious diet and a regular programme of exercise. Exercise not only affects bone remodeling hy stimulating the release of growth hormones, but exercisers burn more calories, take in more nutrients and absorb more calcium. The reverse is true of habitual inactivity, which in itself leads to a loss of bone which no amount of added calcium can prevent. As you may already know, osteoporosis is a loss of bone tissue that leaves the bones porous, hrittle and subject to easy hreakage.

What you might not know is how difficult it is to predict who will (or will not) develop this symptomless disorder, because the causes are many and not just a natural result of old age. In fact, the first real indication, sometimes the only one, is the presence of an insufficiency fracture - a break in a bone that occurs for no apparent reason. Most frequently these fractures occur at the spine and later in life at the hip, but other skeletal parts can be involved as well. According to the best available estimates, people who have a low bone mineral content people who have a low bone mineral content are at the greatest risk. This group includes the elderly, diabetics, smokers, alcoholics, patients who have an estrogen deficiency of any cause, those undergoing cortisone therapy, or individuals with a strong family history of osteoporosis. If you fit this profile in any way, your doctor probably will consider taking bone mineral measurements at regular intervals to see how you are getting

The two most promising techniques available to detect low amounts of bone mineral (before irreversible damage occurs) are quantitative computed tomography (QCT) and photon absorptiometry, both of which are X-rays or ultrasound pictures that show bone density. These tests, by measuring mass, can not only determine the amount of loss hut weak areas where hreaks are likely to occur.

Should structural changes be severe, your doctor may order a biopsy to rule out a malignancy of the bone marrow, as well as take steps to see if there are any vitamin deficiencies or endocrine, kidney or liver prohlems which might be causing the bone oss. In circumstances where mineral content is low hut within a normal range, chan-ges in lifestyle and a readily usable form of calcium (such as is provided in many calcium supplements) will be part of the recom-mended course of treatment. I THOUGHT YOU WOULD LIKE TO KNOW: Serious hurns create a trauma that may be severe and very painful. The long period of treatment can place unbearable stress not only on the victim, but the family as well. The loss of income and the cost of care may aggravate financial losses experienced in the accident itself, and frequently families have nowhere to seek advice and support.

The worst driver (male)

THE world record for the most traffic offences in the shortest period of time is held by a man from Frisco, in Texas, who achieved this feat in the first 20 minutes of car ownership. Having hitch-hiked to the nearby city of McKinney on 15 October 1966, he bought a 1953. Ford and drove out of the used car showroom at 3:50 pm. At 3:54 he collided with a

1952 Chevrolet driven by a local woman, Mrs Wilma Smith Bailey, at the corner of McKinney and Heard Street. One minute later he collided again 90 feet south of Virginia

Street and Tennessee Street with another Chevrolet, driven by Miss Sally Whitsel of Farmersville. Feeling more confident now in his new vehicle, be next drove round the courthouse one-way system in the wrong direction. Forty-six feet later he hit a 1963 Ford. It was still only 3:58. He continued in this vein until 4:15 pm, when he was in deep conversation with Patrolman Richard Buchanan, having just bit a Ford Mustang in Louisiana Street. In the space of just 20 minutes be bad acquired 10 traffic ickets, caused six accidents, hit four cars without stopping and driven on the wrong side of the road four times.

When questioned, this determined motorist, who had not driven for 10 years, said: "They don't drive like they used to.'

The least successful gas conversion

SINCE converting his orange Volvo to gas power for reasons of economy, Mr Tony Forward proudly said he had enjoyed two years of trouble-free motoring. In that time he had only once experienced any kind of bother with it.

In the early hours of a morn-ing in 1981 there was a loud explosion which had woken not only him, hut also the entire population of Derby Green, a small hamlet in Hampshire. Thinking it might be a thunderboit, he went outside to find that the blast from his car had destroyed his garage and conservatory, scattered his freezer and its contents over the garden, blown a hole in a neighhour's garage, damaging their car, and left a fence and his own personally modified Volvo in flames. Such was the heat that a

THE Edinburgh Festival fringe was set alight in 1983 by an outstanding production of Ubu Roi that closed after only 15 minutes of its first and last per-

The leading actor and director Hermann van Harten said the production did not have the animals as advertised because no one told him they would have to be put into quarantine. The parrots and cockatoos were dispensable, but the pig was essential because it played the role of Ubu Roi's wife. Three-quarters of a mile out the lorry got stuck. Mr Jenkins made the long trek back to a telephone and called out one of his tractors. As soon as it arrived this got stuck as well. The family climbed out and watched as the tide covered both vehicles.

On the Friday morning the first tractor was pulled out by a second. Together they set off to rescue the Dodge, but enroute both got stuck and were en fed by the incoming tide.

Mr Jenkins now had three vehicles under water and so set out with his third tractor to remedy the situation. In rescuing the Dodge this tractor also became stuck and that night it too disappeared beneath the

WASHINGTON, Sept 21, (AP): The nation's budget deficit problems will not be solved without reductions in social security and defence spending, a co-chairman of the National Economic Commission said today. Washington Attorney Robert Strangs said the commission, which he heads with former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, is not underestimating the formidable challenge facing the group. The commission was created by Congress to recommend ways for the next president to balance the federal budget. While Democrat presidential candidate Michael Dukakis has indicated a willingness to listen to the the federal budget. With Democrat presocutor cammonic Michael Dukakis has indicated a willingness to listen to the group's recommendations, Republican George Bush has vowed to ignore expected calls for a tax increase. Strauss said that such politically potent government programmes as social security benefits, medicare and other entitlement programmes and defence spending will have to take cuts, since they account for 68 defence spending will have to take cuts, since they account for 68 per cent of federal spending. "We have to go to social security, medicare and entitlements generally and we have to go to defence," Strauss said, saying the commission realised the political firestorm such suggestions will create. "That means you are withholding money from the sick, the elderly and the defence of the nation," he said. Strauss said the group probably will recommend a four-or five-year plan to eliminate the deficit, which is expected to total an estimated $152 billion this year: Strauss said ton priority will be given to spending cuts and only after they is expected to total an estimated 54.52 union aris year. Surmiss said top priority will be given to spending cuts and only after they are exhausted would the commission look at possible tax increases. Strauss made his remarks before a group of economic advisers for both Bush and Dukakis; who have been meeting in a public conference to examine the top economic problems which will face the next president. His comments marked the most detailed discussion yet of where the commission is headed. The 12member panel is searching for a bipartisan plan to attack the budget deficits, hoping to complete its work by Dec 21 in time to be incorporated in the first budget submitted by the new president. Strauss said be believes it is essential to keep the comm deliberations out of the current presidential debate,

S. Korea hopes for up to $1.5b of sales at trade fairs

SEOUL, South Korea, Sept 21, (AP): Enjoying maximum publicity from the Olympics, South Korea is hoping for up to $1.5 billion of sales at international trade shows in Seoul this fall. The Korea Trade Promotion Corp. said today the Seoul international trade fair 88 will be held on Oct 20-30 at the Korea Exhibition Centre, with nearly 500 companies, including 181 from 31 foreign countries, displaying products. The state-run Promotion Corporation is sponsoring the fair at the four-storey centre with a combined space of 192,000 square metres close to the main Olympic stadium in the southern sector of the capital. Kotra officials said some 4,000 prospective buyers were expected to visit the fair and buy up to $600 million in export and import contracts. Besides traditional buyers from the United States and Japan, many businessmen from Communist comprises are slated to visit the fair this year, the officials said. South Korea recently began opening trade ties with Hungary, China and other communist countries. The Electronic ladustries Association of Korea said the 9th annual Korea electronic show will be held on Oct 21-26 at the nearby annex exhibition building. Association officials said 475 companies from 18 countries are scheduled to display products in the electronics show, and Korean exhibitors boyer about $200 will remark will result blundered of forcing products in the electronics show, and korean exhibitors hope about $900 million of exports will result. Hundreds of foreign business executives are in Seoul for the Olympic Games, which end Oct 2. They were invited by Korean husinessmen eager to develop stronger business ties. An international furniture fair also is scheduled for the main exhibition centre in early November.

European airlines passenger traffic growth quickens

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept 21 (AP): European airlines registered a 5.2 per cent increase in passenger traffic in July on their global routes compared with the year-earlier month, according to the Association of European Airlines (AEA). The July result was an improvement on a "poor second quarter," the 21-member AEA said. The AEA said its member airlines carried 8.8 per cent more passengers on European routes in July compared with a year earlier. The number of passengers carried on the North Atlantic rose only 2.9 per cent but this was an improvement on June when there was a fractional decrease on that route. Traffic June when there was a fractional decrease on that route. France to the Far East-rose 6 per cent, below historical growth trends but better than in recent mouths, the AEA said. There also was a revival in carryings to Africa, where traffic rose 8.4 per cent in July. For the first seven months of 1988, the AEA carried 7.4 per cent more passengers on global routes compared with the corresponding year-earlier period. The increase included a 10.5 per cent rise in carryings in Europe, The AEA said that the amount of freight carried by its members continued to fluctuate. In July, freight carried by its members continued to fluctuate. In July, freight traffic was up 7.3 per cent, the second lowest increase of the year, and up 10.2 per cent for the first seven months of 1988.

Asia's oil market is growing

SINGAPORE, Sept 21, (AP): Asia is fast becoming one of the world's major oil markets, consuming about 11 million harrels daily, the president of Mobil Qil Copp. said today. Oil demand from Japan in the North and India in the West to New Zealand in the South is growing at a rate of 6 per cent a year due to the region's booming economies, Richard F. Tocker told delegates at the Asia-Pacific oil conference. "Overall energy growth in the Asia-Pacific region is expected to continue at high rates into the 1990s. This contrasts with rest of the world in which energy demand has slowed or declined," he said. Growing prosperity and expanding commerce mean more vehicles on the roads, he noted. expanding commerce mean more venices on the roms, he noted. Air traffic, commercial transportation, mechanisation of agriculture and household use of liquefied petroleum gas are also increasing. Tucker said. Expansion and modernisation of existing refineries and construction of new ones are under way in Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thuland, South Korea, Taiwan, India and China, he said. In contrast, oil refinery in the United States and Europe have been declining. "I would guess that crude oil prices will oscillate between $15 to $18 per baryel for the next couple of years," he added. China may have to import oil to most the most of the property of t to meet the needs of its rapidly expanding economy, I never said, although "China does have the long-range potential for discovery and development of large petroleum reserves; particularly in the northwest, where geologists believe the largest unexplored sedimentary basin in the world is located."

Credits

Development aid loans are for specific development projects.
The IDA offers credits at a fixed. interest rate of 0.75 per cent, with a 10-year grace period and a maturity of 40 years.

West Germany now offers some credits at rates above one per cent and some borrowing costs are as high as six per cent.

Mubarak flays IMF

CAIRO, Sept 21, (Reuter): President Hosni Mubarak criticised the International Monctary Fund (IMF) yesterday for failing to understand Egypt's economic problems and said he would implement his own reform

"The IMF knows our problems exactly but does not want to understand them," Mubarak told a meeting of agricultural specialists.

"We will not accept a reform. plan imposed on us from outside but will carry out our own plan, taking domestic conditions into consideration," Mubarak said. By the end of June, Egypt had rescheduled payments of more than $6 billion on its $43-billionforeign debt.

It is still trying to reachedule at least $5 billion in debts due between last July and the end of next year, but needs a new accord with the IMF to show its creditors.

The IMF wants Egypt to slash its five billion pound ($2.2billion) budget deficit, increase dointestic interest rates and raise the prices of state-subsidised fuel

Prices Mubarak said he wanted to increase prices gradually, apparently to avoid a repetition of the street riets that met food price hikes in January 1977, The IMF plan aims at killing the Egyptian citizen and is impossible to implement," he said. The IMF wants to cancel subsidies at one go while we intend to do it gradually."

Mubarak leaves on Thursday for Belgrade, London, Paris and Bonn where he will seek support for his attempts to tackle Egypt's economic problems. He said his talks with European leaders would focus on the Middle East, the Gulf and bilateral economic co-operation.

Mubarak last week attacked the IMF as a "quack doctor" which prescribed "a huge dose of medicine in one go instead of a daily pill." Meanwhile, a senior US Treasury official said yesterday, support is growing within the IMF for a plan to help countries in arrears with the fund to clear their overdue obligations.

Eliminating the arrears, which now exceed $2.5 billion, would make the countries involved eligible for new loans from the fund and other international lending agencies.

If they are not tackled, the arrears could weaken the fund's financial position and its ability to deal with the debt criss, the h US official, briefing reporters ahead of the IMF annual meeting in West Berlin later this week,

Furthermore, the arrears were a "fundamental hurdle" that would have to be overcome before the United States could back an increase in the IMF's resources, which are now around $115 billion, he added.

Largely because of US opposi-tion, the IMF has already decided to postpone a decision on whether to increase quotas, or subscriptions, until next year. The arrears have increased since 1983 as a number of countries, squeezed between a rising foreign deht burden and falling export revenues, found themselves unable to keep up with their payments. By the end of April, the end of the IMF's financial year, the arrears had climbed to $2.52 hillion, up from 1.54 billion a year earlier.

Nine countries were late with payments at the end of April, including Peru, Sudan and Zambia, according to the fund's annual report, published last

A few of them had allowed their arrears to accumulate to such an extent that "strong and determined efforts on their part, together with extraordinary support from the international community, will be necessary to clear the arrears and remain current in the future," the report said.

The US official said the IMF's policy-making interim committee, in exploring ways to tackle the late payments, would be working on three principles. First, the countries in arrears would have to be prepared to undertake the genuine economic reforms required to qualify for an IMF loan programme, the official said. Second, once a country was making the necessary policy adjustments, donor govern-ments would provide bilateral aid so it could clear its arrears.

American consumer prices rise 0.4pc

WASHINGTON, Sept 21, (AP): Higher costs for food, shelter and gasoline sent US consumer prices up 0.4 per cent in August, the government said today, as the effects of the drought in the farm belt began to ease.

The August increase, equivalent to an annual inflation rate of 5.2 percent, was the same as in July. Higher rents and gasoline prices in large part replaced food as the sharpest spurs to higher

Food and beverage prices were up 0.5 per cent last month, compared with 0.6 per cent and 0.9 per cent gains in June and July, respectively. Shelter costs, reflecting higher rates for hotel and motel rooms, were up 0.6 per cent, the steepest gain in seven months. Jumped Energy prices jumped 0.9 per cent on a 3.0 per cent boost in gasoline prices, their sharpest gain in a year. The Lahour Department said, however, that gasoline prices were still slightly below the level of August 1987 and were 26 per cent below their peak of March 1981. The higher gasoline prices offset decreases for all household fuels. Heating oil costs were down 0.8 per cent; natural gas prices were off 1.2 per cent; electricity costs slipped 0.2 per cent.

The lower home energy prices somewhat offset 0.4 per cent increases in rents and repair expenses and a 0.5 per cent gain in mortgage costs. "Increases in the food, shelter

Climb

Grocery store prices continued to climb, but at a slower pace than in July. Those prices were up 0.8 per cent last month, compared with a 1.4 per cent jump in July. That had been their largest gain in 41 years.

'About 90 per cent. of the August advance was due to price increases for items that were adversely affected by the drought - fruits and vegetables, cereal and hakery products, poultry and eggs," the department said. Fruit and vegetable prices rose 1.3 per cept after being up 2.9 per cent in the preceding month.

They have jumped a total of 10.6 per cent over the last year.

G-7 is comfortable with exchange rates: Lawson

LONDON, Sept 21, (AP): Chan-cellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson said today the Group of Seven finance ministers are gen-erally comfortable with current exchange rates and that he expects them to reaffirm their intent to co-operate on economic

Commonwealth fund would help ease Third World debt crisis

LIMASSOL, Cyprus, Sept 21, (Reuter): Commonwealth finance ministers are poised to give the go-ahead for a fund with an initial target of $100 million to help ease the deht crisis facing their poorer members.

The proposed fund which would channel private investment into emerging stock markets of the 49-nation association has won broad approval at the ministers' annual talks in Cyprus ahead of this year's IMF/World Bank meetings in West Berlin.

"We hope to be given the goahead to look in detail at how the fund should be set up," said Vince Cahle, special adviser at the Commonwealth secretariat and one of the authors of a report "Mobilising Capital for Development: The Role of Private Flows."

Key The fund, a key element in the Commonwealth's strategy for easing the poorer members' deht crisis, won the strong backing of Cypriot President George Vas-siliou in his opening address to the ministers on Tuesday evento be endorsed in a communique talks on Thursday.

The poorer Commonwealth nations, including Nigeria and India are estimated to owe about $1,100 billion and a year ago urged a new initiative to attract fresh capital. The need for new ideas has become more urgent following a sharp decline in commercial bank lending to the Third World and a warning hy the Washing-ton-hased Institute of International Finance earlier this month banks no longer had the capacity nor the willingness to meet their share of financing

But Cable told Reuters that soundings with institutional investors had suggested fresh private capital could be attracted into an equity fund mixing various commonwealth stock

"There may have to be a mix between shares in countries where there are large companies and developed exchanges, hut the majority would be in emerging markets," he said. That might mean anchoring some of the portfolio investment in the more developed Singaporean, Indian and Malaysian stock markets.

Cable said however the majority would be in small, underdeveloped markets in Commonwealth countries which would find it difficult to set un their own national funds. That could mean Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Jamaica in the Caribbean, Mauritius, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh in Asia and Kenya, Zimhahwe and Nigeria in Africa.

Contribution

Commonwealth countries are not being asked to make a direct financial contribution and some delegates said industrial country members may even seek assurances that no government invest-ment is made, ensuring a 100 per cent flow of private capital.

"We do not want countries putting in development cash and avoiding its use elsewhere," said one delegate from an industrial-

VIENNA, Sept 21, OPECNA):
Dr Seyyid Abdulai, discour general of the OPEC Fund for International Development, said yesterday, that instead of concentrating on developing countries debt to the exclusion of all else, there was immediate need for helping them achieve a manimum rate of economic growth.

rate of economic growth.

He emphasised that first things should be done first, Developing countries should be enabled to increase production and get their economics going. Once that happened the debt question would be on its way to being tackled.
He acknowledged that recent moves by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund had begun to address this problem in a number of affected countries, but cautioned that unless steps were taken to enable these states to resume economic growth and become productive, little success would result. Abdulai, who leaves for Paris today to attend this week's meetings of OECD's concessional assistance arm, the Development Assistance Committee (DAC), and the co-ordination group formed by a number of development institutions from North and South, made these remarks in an interview with OPECNA. Moeting

The one-day DAC meeting will be preceded by a meeting of the co-ordination group which is constituted by six national and two multilateral Arah aid institutions, the OPEC Fund, the Islamic Development Bank and a number of OECD and EEC financial bodies.

Abdulai said the theme of the meetings would be "Human capital and the creation of employment in rural areas in developing countries" and structural adjustment and related

The OPEC Fund chief said the meetings would also exchange information on selected projects. past project experience and future outlook.

Abdulai will also attend the 52nd meeting of the inter-gov-ernmental "Group of 24" on international monetary affairs in West Berlin on Friday as well as the 39th ministerial meeting of the Inter-Governmental Group of 24 on Saturday.
At the weekend, he will also attend meetings of the heads of multilateral financial institutions and development commit-

of the board of governors of the World Bank and IMF - on resource transfers to developing Capablilty

Responding to a question on heavily-indehted developing countries, Abdulai said this issue had been on the agenda since 1982 and there was no way it could be solved unless the affected countries were given the capability to increase production through fresh flows of concessional assistance and other help-

"What these countries receive in development funds goes to servicing dehts," he said, adding "financing institutions should create growth, which is slowing

He said the World Bank and IMF were now geared in their own ways to help developing countries to grow to service their deht, hut unless there were higher resource transfer and major economic incentives, they would get even more heavily in debt.

Many countries like West Germany and France had been talking about "forgiving dehts," but the problem would remain unless genuine solutions were found, he Abdulai said developing countries which were indehted should be given the financial resources to produce crops which should find "open markets." However, he pointed out that, on the other hand, in industrialised countries. farmers' produce was being subsidised three times by their gov-

London Money Market

LONDON, SEPT 21, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTEREST RATES HELD A FIRMER BIAS IN LATE TRADING BUT WERE BELOW THE DAY'S PEAK LEVELS. OEALERS SAID STERLING'S STABILITY AFTER A WEAK OPENING HELPED RATES TRIM THEIR EARLIER GAINS.

TRADERS SAID THE MARKET HAD RESUMED ITS CAUTIOUSLY QUIET TONE AFTER YESTERDAT'S FLURRY OF ACTIVITY WHICH SAW FALLS OF AS MUCH AS 1/4 POINT IN RESPONSE TO U.K. MONEY SUPPLY AND BANK LENDING OATA FOR AUGUST WHICH WERE BETTER THAN EXPECTED OVERALL.
THEY SAID THE FALLS TESTEROAT WERE OVERDONE, HOWEVER. THE KEY THREE MONTH INTERBANK RATE REACHED A NIGH OF 12-3/16 1/16
PCT BEFORE FALLING BACK TO 12-1/8 12, A NET GAIN OF 1/16 POINT.

Wall Street Market Report

NEW YORK, Sept 21, (Reuter): Wall Street stocks were narrowly mixed after giving up early gains that followed favourable consumer price and housing starts reports. Janney Montgomery Scott analyst Eugene Peroni said; "We have a flat market on a semi-holiday."

Peroni added, "We see some of the August upward market momentumfading, with stocks pulling back to a near term trading range of 2060 to 2120 on the Dow. It's a lethargic market with takeover stocks the features. That will! The Dow 30 was up one at 2088 after rising to 2092. Decliners took a small-lead over gaining issues.

France to boost Third World aid effort

PARIS, Sept 21, (AP): France intends to step up its aid effort to the Third World in an effort to reach the level prescribed by the United Nations "as soon as possible." Finance Minister Pierre Beregovoy said today.

Addressing finance ministers from 14 African countries that with Frence constitute the franc zone, Beregovoy said the French government intends to raise the proportion of the nation's gross domestic product devoted to aid to 0.54 per cent from the 1987 level of 0.51 per cent.

He said France's ambition is to achieve the objective of 0.7 per cent set by the United Nations as soon as possible.

Only Norway, the Netherlands. Denmark and Sweden surpassed the 0.7 per cent target

Because of its historical sphere of influence in Africa, France places itself in a role as a defender of the interests of African counsuch as the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

Beregovoy said that at next week's joiot annual meetings of these two bodies in West Berlin, he intends to call for a further easing of the concessional terms at which developing countries borrow from the World Bank.

This is necessary, he said, "in order to increase as much as possible net transfers of resources to intermediary countries." The IMF's recently-created enhanced structural adjustment facility, the World Bank's special programme and the African Development Fund of the African Development Bank will make available a total of $18 billion for Third World countries over the next three years, he said, including $15 billion for sub-Saneran African nations.

LONDON, Sept 21, (Reuter): The price of gold tumbled to below 400 dollars an ounce in hectic trading today as a continuing slide in oil prices cooled fears of inflation.

Gold plunged more othan $10 to a low of $399.35 an ounce at 0950 GMT. Its lowest since February, 1987.

"Any rallies are being sold into," said a London dealer. Oil prices fell, too, as Brent crude oil from the North Sea slipped 10 cents to sell at $13.50 a barrel for November delivery.

There has definitely been a significant slowdown in investor interest in gold," said one London analyst.

Hope
"Many still believe the market will fall further. In other words, we cannot expect bargain hunting, which seems to be the only bope for a recovery at the moment," a Tokyo dealer said. Gold is traditionally used as a hedge against inflation, but slumping oil prices and doubts that OPEC will be able to do much to stop the slide have sharply cut investor interest in precious metals.

Investors, instead, are moving funds into cash deposits and bonds on which they are paid

In London share prices rose strongly today, boosted by the announcement of Britain's largest-ever takeover bid.

Before official trading began, Minorco S.A. launched its hostile offer for the 71 per cent of Consolidated Goldfields PLC which it doesn't already own in a cash and stock offer valuing the whole company at £2.9 billion ($4.9 billion), or £13.06 ($21.94) a share.

Exchange 100-share index finished 24.7 points, or 1.4 per cent, better at 1,796.8.

The 100-share index surged as

Volume was relatively strong, as 438.6 million shares changed hands, compared with Tuesday's volume of 309.2 million shares.

The catalyst for the market's jump was Minorco's offer of £19 pounds ($31.92) in cash and one new Minorco share for every two consolidated Goldfields shares.

Consolidated Goldfields rejected Minorco's advances, saying the offer lacked "financial justification" and was "devoid of commercial logic." The com-pany urged its shareholders not to sell its shares and said the hid would be aggressively resisted. The Financial Times 30-share

CBK warns on exchange firms

THE Central Bank of Kuwait on Tuesday published a list of registered exchange companies bolding business licences from the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, and advised the public to screen any business papers before signing.

Reacting to widespread public complaints of fraud and swindling by exchange companies, the bank statement noted that having a licence and being registered with the Central Bank does not necessarily mean that the exchange companies are lawahiding.

The bank indicated that the public should be very careful when dealing with exchange firms and scrutinise business deals before signing.

Deposits

The statement pointed out that exchange firms are licensed to buy and sell foreign currencies, issue traveller's cheques and drafts and deal in precious metals. They can also collect cheques and drafts drawn from abroad.

The Central Bank, as controller, makes sure that exchange companies do not take deposits, open savings and current accounts, accept securities deposits, and offer letters of

East bloc attitude to IMF mirrors policy on reform

EAST BERLIN, Sept 21. (Reuter): Gone are the days when the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and World Bank needed to worry that the East bloc would simply hrand them as imperialist tools.

East bloc officials say Bulgaria has shown interest, too.

The East German and Czechoslovak authorities, however. continue to resist reform at home and dismiss talk of joining the IMF and World Bank.

A National Bank of Hungary official said there was general interest in the East hloc in World Bank and IMF activities.

"Most people think it would be very nice to join the World Bank without joining the fund,' he said. The IMF attaches strings to its credit and monitors compliance, whereas the bank gives loans for specific projects.

Opinions

Western diplomats in East Berlin said opinions on the IMF and World Bank largely mirrored East bloc countries' approach to reform and their level of success.

At one end of the spectrum stands Hungary, whose radical economic restructuring to overcome the highest per capita debt in Eastern Europe strikes a chord with the IMF.

"It has given people who want to get things moving some added weight by letting them say "we have to do this because of the IMF." a diplomat in Budapest might mean that we're struggling a bittle bit to maintain our export momentum, but no one is worrying about that at this point," said Donald Ratajczak, economic forecasting director at Georgia State University. Last week, the department said in its monthly trade report that US exports in July fell 8.9 per cent from June. Economists also said the busi-

They noted that the downward revision in business spending was entirely in construction of new

A key factor retarding econ-

The 16 signatories to GATT dairy protocols are: Argentina, Australia, Bulgaria, the European Economic Community, Egypt, Finland, Hungary, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Romania, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland and Uruguay.

Skimmed milk powders have had the most radical price increase over the past year, virnow, GATT's spokesman said. Whole milk and cheese prices are also substantially higher. There had been an 11.5 per cent fall in production of skimmed milk powders in 1987, he said, and world milk production declined by one per cent last year --- the first drop in 20 years.

A major factor was a five per cent cut in milk deliveries in the European Economic Community which has been acting to curt surpluses.

The new changes raise minimum export prices for skimmed milk powder and buttermilk powder to $1,050 from $900 per tonne and for whole milk powder to $1,150 from $1,000 per tonne.

Dear Junior Readers

How many of you have already started giving some thought to your future careers? Too many people tend to drift through life without really planning, or even knowing, what they want to do. Some of them are lucky to find jobs which make them happy, but o lot spend many years just plodding on from day to day feeling bored and fed-up with jobs that are not really right for them.

Do not fool yourself into thinking that because the start of your working life is still some way off you can just sit back and wait until you finish school before deciding on o career. You should start planning as soon as possible so that you can choose the right subjects for the kind of career you are interested in.

But, offinal note: be realistic. For example, there is not much hope of ever becoming a doctor, even if it is your biggest dream, if you are absolutely useless at science subjects! So, build your plans around what you are good at. Auntie Jayne ...

By Alison Uttley

WHITE-BEARDED ancient man walked over the hills and wide valleys of the world. On his back he carried a sack which moved uneasily as if something were trying to escape from it, but he-settled it between his shoulders and plodded along unwearied, with even strides, and unvarying pace, taking no account of the lands through which he went.

He was Father Time, travelling for ever, and the sack he bore was filled with To-morrows, all struggling and shuffling to get

Each night, at twelve o'clock, he opened the bag and out flew a To-morrow, just one, with its wings of blue, and its shining feathers rosy with hope. All the rest were kept back by Time's strong hands and pushed deep in the sack.

Down flew the Tomorrow, beating its lovely feathers, but as it touched the earth off fell its blue wings and it changed to an ordinary white bird which could not fly. It had become a To-day. Every one knows that Today isn't as wonderful as Tomorrow, for To-days can be held in one's hands, accepted, despised, scorned, but To-morrow is full of mystery and beauty. It holds fortune and happiness. It is desired by all the world. Even those with little hope sigh, "To-morrow may bring a change. Tomorrow life will be dif-

Everybody tried to catch the To-morrow before it fell to the ground, so that they could peer under those hlue wings and rosy feathers, to see what the future brought for them. Some To-morrows bore Happiness and Love under their wings, others carried Grief and Poverty, hut all was hidden until To-day came.

The people thought if they knew heforehand what the To-morrow carried they could prepare for it. So they put bird-lime on the trees where the Tomorrows might alight as they flew from Father Time's bag, and they hun-ted the birds with great nets, seeking to capture one before he changed his plumage. Yet although they tried every device, the birds escaped them and flew to the ground as Todays.

At last, after many experiments and failures, a Philosopher caught a Tomorrow. He made a web of dreams and wove it tightly into a net. This he spread in the air, and behold! a Tomorrow fluttering down was caught! He took it home, struggling, and fluttering its blue wings and rosy feathers, but it could not get out of the closely woven meshes. He suspended the net from the ceiling of his room, and watched the bird. Its wings were dazzling with promises, each one of a deep-blue colour, and as the bird shook its feathers the promises sprayed the air. Each wing had twelve long pinions, and they were Tomorrow's hours. Every feather in the pinion was To-morrow's minutes. The beauty of the unknown shone from the downy breast. The wise man thought that if he could keep the To-morrow imprisoned he would always know the future. Perhaps the hird would die, or change, hut he could catch another in his magic net.

He took out a note-book and a tape-measure, and measured the pretty creature. He wrote down a description of the changing iridescent colours, as the minutes and hours went by, and he wrote too the promises he could see for every minute of time the next day. All day he wrote, setting down everything that would happen on the morrow. At mid-night he waited, for then Father Time would set free another To-morrow, a new bird. He watched to see if his own bird would become a To-day, white as snow. No, its wings sparkled with fresh promises, it was still To-morrow, lovely To-morrow, waiting in glittering beauty in the net. The wise man clapped his hands with joy, and the To-morrow beat its wings and tried to escape with little cries of impatience, but the net held firmly. The next day's events could be read, To-morrow would always be known. The wise man now knew everything that would happen. He could foretell the future and his forecasts would never fail. He knew what would happen in the King's palace, and in the beggar's garret; he knew who would die, and who would be born. Happiness and misery, and all the events of life were open to him, to tell the world. He would be the most powerful of all men --- yet he kept his secret a little longer. Each day he feverishly wrote the future happenings, and always the words were true, so that he knew all things. But as he looked at the changing feathers of the beautiful bird, he felt sad. He wanted to warn people of their fate. If he told the sorrows of Tomorrow, he would spoil To-day, he would hreak even the white bird, Today; whilst if he spoke of the happiness To-morrow would bring, he would lessen the joy of unexpected-

He decided to invite people to see his wonderful bird, to judge for themselves whether they would know all things. So he opened his doors and welcomed any who wished to view a beautiful Tomorrow,

People came crowding in, rich and poor, all eager to see To-morrow. They pressed round the exquisite shy bird, which flew gently to and fro in the net of dreams, never resting its feet, with no perch or branch, its feathers gleaming like a changing rainbow. As they read the future in the moving wings of To-morrow, their cries of excitement grew louder, they pushed and struggled to get nearer. Some wept, others groaned, whilst many laughed wildly and tried to seize the bird with upthrust greedy hands, eager for more news. The bird flew out of their reach, and the wise man came back to keep it from death at their hands. Out of doors he sent the crowd, and they streamed down the roads to their homes, shouting, wildeyed, frightened, for only a few were strong enough to bear either the good or the evil in store for them.

The wise man locked his doors and returned sadly to the room where the hluewinged To-morrow fluttered slowly in the net of dreams. There, standing underneath it, with a hand thrust through the meshes of the net, was a little boy who had been left behind.

As the child stroked the soft plumage, and spoke with endearing words to the lovely creature, the bird stretched its wings to their utmost, and broke the net. It flew down to the ground, and the wise man never attempted to catch it, hut watched intently to see the hlue wings fall, and the feathers change. To his surprise it remained the same radiant colour. It was a bird of To-day, with wings of blue and feathers rosy with hope.

"There are no Tomorrows for a child," said the philosopher, thoughtfully, as he watched the bird preen itself whilst the hoy kneeled down and stroked its wings. "To-day is the most perfect time and To-morrow is unknown and undesired."

"Keep it," said he to the eager hoy. "It is yours for ever.

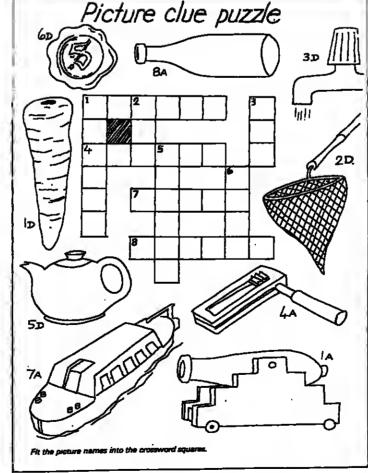

He unlocked the doors and threw them wide open. The child walked out of the house with the hird in his arms, a lovely To-day, a beautiful bird which never changed till the boy grew to be a man. Then it fluttered its blue wings and darted up into the sky to find its master. Father Time. But the young man sat down at his desk and wrote a poem about it.

NESTY OUTSWIMS BIONDI FOR GOLD

Soviet women gymnasts triumph

SEOUL, South Korea, Sept 21, (AP): Elena Sbusbunova won the battle of the perfect 10s to lead the Soviet women's gymnastic team to a gold medal at the Seoul Games today, while the Olympic swimming, like a magic fountain, again transformed obscurity into nstant fame.

Taking Soviet revenge for a loss to Romania at last year's world championships, Shushunova scored three I0s to two perfect scores hy her Romanian rival Damela Silivas, whose team won the silver medal.

Earlier, Surinam's sby and unsung Anthony Nesty outswam the world's elite today to win the first goldmedal ever for his small South American country. Derby

Swimming competition today also produced a cascade of Olympic and world records, two gold medals for East Germany and one gold each for the United States and Hungary

A Bulgarian weightlifter,
meanwhile, hroke three world records in winning his country's fourth gold medal of the Games. The Soviet Union jumped far into the lead in the Seoul medals derhy with seven golds and 18 medals overall. East Germany was second with 11 medals

overall, followed by Bulgaria and the United States with nine The Soviet women gymnasts piled up 395.475 points. The Romanians kept up the pressure until the last moment and ended the evening with 394.125 points.

Bulgaria's Angel Guenchev broke the three world records in the 67.5-kilogramme weightlifting class division, bettering the old marks in the snatch, clean and jerk and in the total of 362.5 kilos in two lifts.

Two days after Australia's unheralded Duncan Armstrong upset the higgest names in swimming, the 20-year-old Nesty zipped past America's vaunted Matt Biondi just centimetres from the wall to win the men's 100-metre hutterfly hy one-hundredths of a second.

Biondi, who had to settle for the silver medal, rebounded in the men's 4x200 freestyle relay hy anchoring the US team to a gold medal in the world record time of 7 minutes, 12.51 seconds ahead of the East and West German teams. The American star thus became the first triple medal winner of the Games, adding today's gold and silver to the bronze he captured in Monday's 200-metre freestyle won hy Armstrong.

Nesty's was the first of 13 gold medals to be contested on the fifth day of the Scoul Olympics. They included five in swimming, three in Greco-Roman wrestling and a hig one in the women's In all, three world records and

S. Korea win first gold

SEOUL, Sept 21, (Reuter): South Korea exploded with a mixture of joy and relief today after Kim Young-Nam won the host country's first gold medal of the Olympics.

Only Canada in 1976 have failed to strike gold at their own Summer Games and Kim's victory in the Greco-Roman wrestling welterweight class finally gave South Korea some return on their $3.1 hillion Olympic investment.

Kim, a gold medallist at the 1986 Asian Games here, was considered the Koreans' best medal hope and he proved equal to the occasion.

The packed stadium went wild when Kim beat Daulet Turlykhanov of the Soviet Union in the final. Thousands of normally restrained Koreans gave vent to their elation while Kim raced around excitedly before being dragged to the mat for a lengthy clinch with his ecstatic manager. Sitting in the stands his wife wept uncontrollably during the latter stages of the hout. Her tears continued unabated as dozens of photographers surrounded the family group. Kim, who bopes to become a sports scientist, was close in tears during the medal ceremony as, hand over heart, he listened intently to the Korean national anthem.

Group B game against Iraq, Aouita holds clear lead in psychological battle

SEOUL, Sept 21, (Reuter): A pyschological battle being waged among Olympic track and field stars intensified today with Morocco's Said Aouita holding a close lead just two days before a clear lead just two days before the start of the athletics programme.

Aouita, a past master of the provocative quote, hinted this week that he was considering defending his Olympic 5,000 metres title as well as attempting the first 800-1,500 metres double since 1964.

Reports that Aouita might be contemplating a triple gold bid spread quickly through the athletes' village with initial reaction from his rivals veering between incredulity and apprehension.

Estimated

The Olympic 5,000 metres final starts just 20 minutes after the finish of the 1,500 on October I and Moroccan coach Aziz Daouda said he had estimated Aouita would bave eight minutes to get ready for the 5,000. Aouita's great rival, Steve Cram of Britain, was quick to scoff at Aouita today. "I don't think any body in their right mind could take him seriously," said Cram. "My guess is that he's just having a little bit of a joke.' Cram's compatriot Peter Elliot, who will be racing against each man in the 800 and 1,500, "I know be is superman hut it's taking it a little bit far," Elliott

South Korea mesmerise West Germany

SEOUL, Sept 21, (Reuter): South Knrea, barrying leg weary West Germany over every part of the pitch, scored a sparkling 4-1 win today in their Olympic women's hockey debut. Inside right Jin Wom-Sim was the architect of victory. She set up at least three goals with pinpoint passing as the South Koreans combined together beautifully to tear the West German defence apart.

The West Germans, Olympic and World Cup silver medallists, were made to look second rate at the Songnam stadium as the red-shirted Koreans launched wave after wave of attacks. Marina van der Merwe, the coach of the Canadian team which are South Korea's next opponents, described their play as awesome. The other three teams seeded as potential semi-finalists all had their problems.

The Netherlands, the Olympic and world champions, overcame a bumpy pitch to beat the United States 3-1 but second seeds Australia were held by a 1-1 draw hy Canada.

Britain, ranked last in the tour-nament, beat Argentina 1-0. The Dutch threatened to overwhelm the US in their opening Group A match but goalkeeper Donna Lee frustrated the vaunted Dutch corner machine until Helen van der Ben scored from their seventh corner in the 29th

Gambit wins Ladies Helm Race

KOSA continued their pre-September events on Friday with their annual Ladies Helm Race.

Gayle Barro who along with busband Lino, have just bought Gambit, put their game together with the existing Gambit crew and won the race hy two minutes from Shamaal.

The wind was blowing about 16 knots from the north-west at the start of the Olympic Course Race and most of the 8 competing yachts had acceptable starts for so early in the season.

Danas had an unlucky break on her way out to the wing mark when she had two heavy hroaches which gave both Gambit and Lemons a significant advan-

Saleem and Asad shine for Prince

PRINCE Cricket Club beat Hilti Cricket Club by 32 runs in a Brud Trophy match, organised by the Gulf Cricket League, at the GCL ground earlier this week.

Prince batted first, opening their innings through Muja-hid Butt and Asad Malik who put on 35 runs for the first wicket before the former was out for 17. Asad also went hack to the pavilion soon, after scoring 12, hut Mohammed Saleem thrashed all the Hilti bowlers on his way to 75. Difficult Saleem hammered eight fours as Prince scored 149 for the loss of three wickets in their 26 allotted overs. Shahid remained unbeaten on 22. For Hilti Fakhari took two wickets while Abuzar got one.

Hilti found the going difficult from the start and lost their first wicket with only four runs on the board. Abuzar hit 48 and Khozama 29 but Hilti were only able to score 117 for the loss of all their wickets.

Asad was the main wickettaker for Prince with five wickets for 18 runs. Aslam and Shahid took two wickets

Provide support to clubs, Premier orders authorities

HH the Crown Prince and Premier Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah has issued a directive to the authorities concerned to meet all the financial needs of the Kuwaiti sports clubs.

Commenting on the directive, assistant undersecretary at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour Abdel Rahman Al Mazroni said Sheikh Saad would personally finance the cost of all urgent requirements, while the major long-term needs would be referred to the parties concerned. The ministry, headed by Sheikh Nasser Mohammed Al Ahmed, has assigned a team tosurvey the needs of the sports clubs in implementation of Sheikh Saad's directives.

The Crown Prince's initiative falls in line with his constant support for the development of the sports movement and aims at bringing out the best in the Kuwaiti youth in all sports activities.
